Their Arts Belong to Dada

Cheer and clothing in Caldornia and other points West

In case you missed it. Art had a hirthday early this year, its 1,000,011th to he exact. For it was that long ago (how time flies!) that man created his first Work, simply by showing up on the planet, this according to certain West Coast aesthetes. Man is art, they'll tell you, and that's why more than eight hundred West Coast artists showed up at the Elks Building in Los Angeles and put themselves on exhibition. Their purpose was to honor man's first Work, and display their own wares through adopted names, costumes and funny bats. What's bappening on the West Coast is this; the artists are the art, and whether they're good art or bad depends strictly on the eyes of the beholder. So behold! These pages will introduce fifteen Works from the Golden West, none of whom would remotely match the colors of your sofa.

Or, the true history of the pie in the face

First, a word about why Rocky Graziano consented to be photographed being hit with a pie on this page: (1) Nothing is more American than a nie in the face. (2) Nothing is more American than Rocky Graziano. Therefore: (3) Rocky Graziano being hit with a pie is twice as American as anything else. Now turn the page, will ya?

A Star Is Born

1913! It was a dark and stormy year. There was wer in the Balkans. The income tax became lawful in America. Wondstor Wilson, baselless of the doors that lay before him, entered the White House. The world stood on the brink of 1914, and civilization was about to end. Only in Southern California did the sun shine, and it shope one afternoon in Anordes and it shape on young and beautiful Mabel Normand, then at the beginning of a brilliant corner as the star ingreese of innumerable Mark Sennett comedies. It shone also-the sun, we mean_it shone upon comedian Slim Summerville, one of the original Keystone of strife. According to legend, as recalled in aftertimes by Stan Laurel, Makel bad been taking a vibbles that afternoon from Slim: and, whether in anser or in jest, her glance fell upon the uneaten

Sarah McClendon's Favorite Sitting Ducks

Bane! Bane! Bone! Rane!

At a Presidential news conference on February 25, Washington reporter Sarah McClendon scolded President Nixon for not knowing what was going on in the office of his administrator of Veterans Affairs. Donald E. Johnson. As a result of her outspokenness. The New York Times, even as it was daily dishing out calls for Nixon's scalp, ran a prim editorial castigating reporters who fail to show a proper deference to the office of the Presidency. If deference has never been one of McClendon's long suits, getting the facts of bureaucratic bungling before the public has, and not too long after that press conference Donald Johnson resigned his post under pressure. With Johnson out of the way and with the feeling that other hig hove in the hureauteracy. have been getting off easy while the limelight's been on the President's men involved in Watergate.
